NEW RESEARCH: AIS ARE HIGHLY INCONSISTENT WHEN RECOMMENDING BRANDS OR PRODUCTS; MARKETERS SHOULD TAKE CARE WHEN TRACKING AI VISIBILITY

27 Jan 2026 · 18 min read

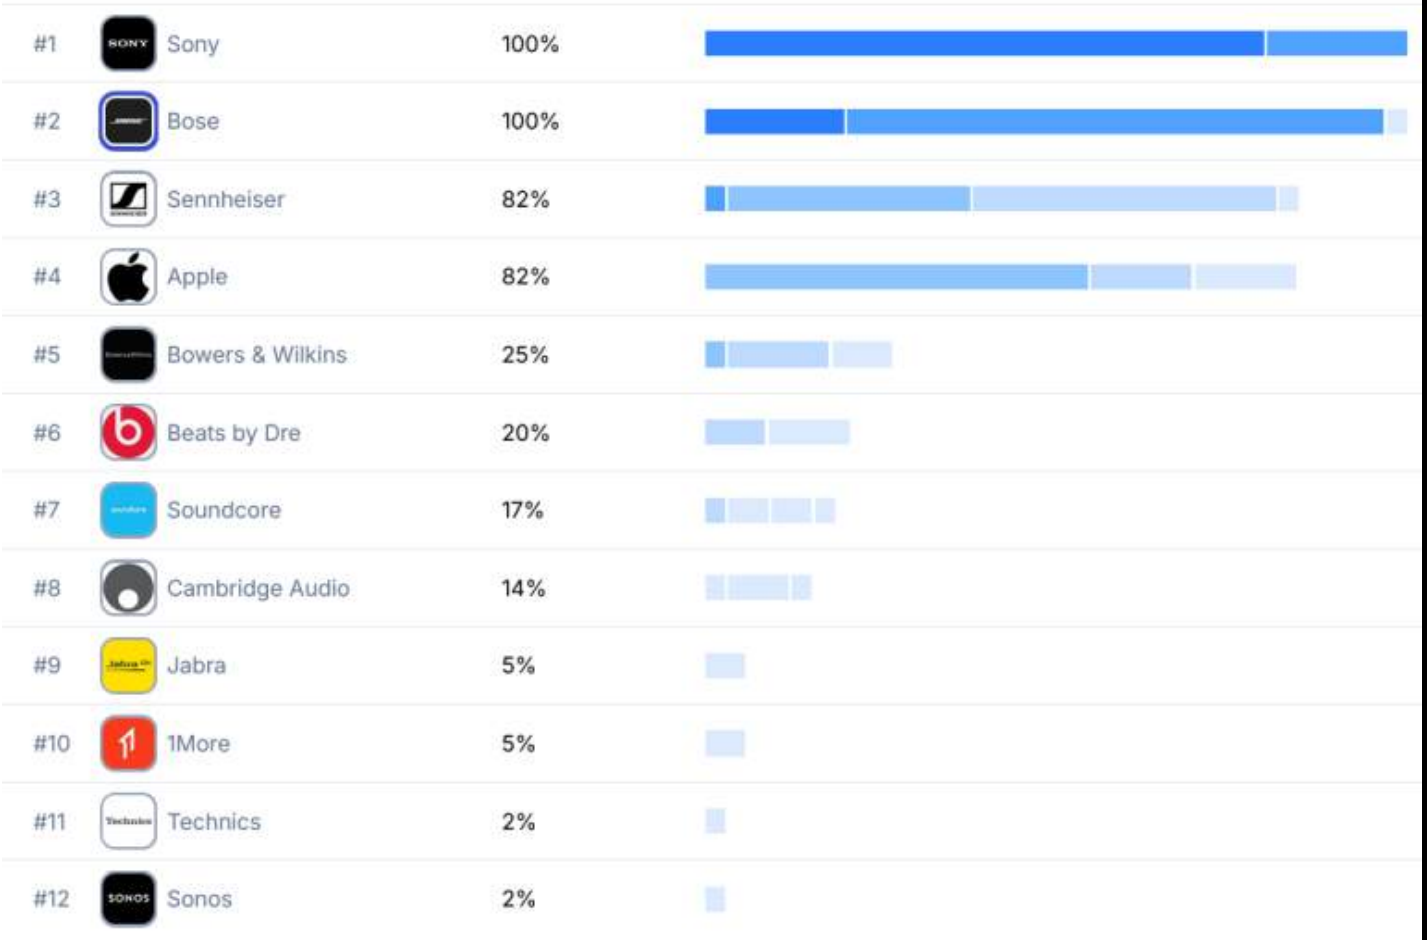

RAND FISHKIN

Rand Fishkin is the co-founder and CEO of SparkToro. For a quarter century he's helped people do better marketing (and held big tech's feet to the fire) through his blog posts, videos, books, and research.

Editor's Note: Watch our free webinar discussing the findings here (no ads).

The Problem: For the last few years, companies have been investing inordinate sums into AI tracking and AI visibility for their brands and products. $100M+/yr is already estimated to be spent on this new version of search analytics and yet, I could find absolutely no research showing whether AI tools are consistent enough, when prompted for lists of brand/product recommendations, to produce valid visibility metrics. There are loads of studies about AI accuracy (in fact, we used Carnegie my mom who travels a lot wants new headphone - she enjoys music anf watch movies. Whcich headphones should I consider?

So if your question is simply:

"I have $150 to spend on jeans and want my mone[illegible]to the most ethical company possible."

I would not buy Banana Republic.

I'd buy Outland or Nudie first, with Kuyichi [illegible]se behind.

One important distinction: MUD may actually be th[illegible]t environmentally progr[illegible]company of the group, while Nudie and Outland have stronger evid[illegible]around the human side of [illegible]duction. So there's no completely objective #1 unless we decide how much weight to give workers versus environmental impact.

Studying the GREATS

HOW DOES THE MAN WHO DRIVES THE SNOWPLOW DRIVE TO THE SNOWPLOW?

This one drives a Volkswagen Rabbit.

Now. We would love to tell you what a brilliant choice he made. How many different cars he checked out. How smart he was to choose a Rabbit.

But the fact is, he didn't have much of a choice at all.

A snowplow driver has two crucial needs:

1) Easy starts in the middle of winter.

2) Very good maneuverability in very bad weather.

Which means he needs both say that only one car in this class combines the starting ease and maneuverability in snow like the Rabbit itself: the Rabbit itself.

Snowplow driver or not, we think you'll be impressed with the way the Rabbit is put together. With its performance, its handling, its carrying capacity.

Car and Driver was very impressed: "The Rabbit does more useful and rewarding things than any other small car in the world."

Now the question is:

Does the man who drives the snowplow own a Rabbit to help him do his job?

Or does he do his job to help him own a Rabbit?.

Trust Warning!!

The "major conference + long track record" tier

If you're filtering for people with both 500+ audiences AND a decade+ on the marquee stages (MozCon, SMX, BrightonSEO, INBOUND, Pubcon, Content Marketing World):

- Aleyda Solís — clearest #1 by sheer volume, breadth (30 countries), and longevity
- Cyrus Shepard — 14+ years, started at MozCon, globally booked
- Lily Ray — 100+ events, consistent MozCon/BrightonSEO/SMX keynotes, very current
- You (Wil) — 20+ years, MozCon/INBOUND/SMX Munich
- Ross Simmonds — decade+, but more content-marketing than SEO/GEO stages

Weaker fit on this specific criterion: Kevin Indig (real reach, but more research/newsletter-led than a long marquee-stage résumé) and especially Evan Bailyn, whose "speaking" credential is a CEO peer-network bureau (Vistage) rather than the industry SEO/GEO conference circuit the rest of this list is built on — worth flagging given the table ranks him #1.
